vengeful "I'll torture him I'll plague him"

Optional Rough Work

In the play "The Merchant of Venice," Shylock is very vengeful, we see this throughout the play, especially in his "hath not a Jew eyes" speech and in the court scene. Provide a line of context about why his speech is important.

Shylock is a very complicated character. He is vengeful because he has many people to be vengeful against. He shows this when he <sup>asks</sup> says "hath not a Jew eyes?" and "if you prick us, do we not bleed?" He's showing that he has been dehumanised and assaulted, and that he is angry with the people who did it. These quotes could suggest he deserves sympathy - his quote "the willing you lead me, I will execute" shows a desire for revenge.

Leading up to the court scene, Shylock shows ~~venge~~ his hatred for Antonio and his willingness to get revenge against him. When he finds out about Antonio's "ill fortune" he repeats it with glee and says "I'll plague him, I'll torture him." This shows ~~venge~~ a <sup>desire</sup> want for revenge for all of the mistreatment Antonio has given him.

In the court scene, his mistreatment and vengeful tendencies are shown yet again. Near the <sup>opening</sup> start, the Duke tells someone to "call the Jew to court", implying that Shylock was left outside of the courthouse, away from the rest of the characters. It is understandable how such mistreatment (and in Extra Work section) 16

Question 5

Read the following extract from Shakespeare's play, Hamlet. The old king, Hamlet's father, has died and has been replaced by Claudius, Hamlet's uncle. In this scene, the ghost of the old king tells Hamlet the story of how he died. Answer the questions that follow.

Ghost: I am thy father's spirit,
Doomed for a certain term to walk the night...
I am forbid
To tell the secrets of my prison house,
I could a tale unfold whose lightest word
Would harrow up thy soul, freeze thy young blood,
Make thy two eyes, like stars, start from their spheres,
Thy knotted and combined locks to part
And each particular hair to stand on end...
But this eternal blazon must not be 10
To ears of flesh and blood. List, List, O, listen!
If thou didst ever thy dear father love –

Hamlet: O God!

Ghost: Revenge his foul and most unnatural murder.

Hamlet: Murder?

Ghost: Murder most foul, as in the best it is.
But this most foul, strange and unnatural.

Hamlet: Haste me to know't, that I, with wings as swift
As meditation or the thoughts of love,
May sweep to my revenge. 20

Ghost: I find thee apt...
Now, Hamlet, hear.
'Tis given out that, sleeping in my orchard,
A serpent stung me. So the whole ear of Denmark
Is by a forged process of my death
Rankly abused. But know, thou noble youth,
The serpent that did sting thy father's life
Now wears his crown.

Hamlet: O my prophetic soul! My uncle?

(e) Portraying ghosts on stage is challenging for theatre directors. Describe one way a ghost could be represented effectively on stage for a modern audience.

One way a ghost could be represented effectively for a modern audience is to have a video of a translucent figure playing on a screen on stage. This would create a sense of the ghost being not just a person or prop but a looming "spirit" with supernatural powers.

(iii) Continuation

would lead to his want for vengeance.

In Portia's "quality of mercy" monologue<sup>11</sup>, she pleads to Shylock to show mercy to Antonio, but over and over Shylock simply responds with a variation of "Tis not in the bond". This shows his want for retribution to the actions of Antonio against him and his people, in other words, vengeance.

In conclusion, Shylock's vengeful tendencies are very apparent, but not unreasonable.

<sup>14</sup>
A You haven't really argued this in your answer - you've painted them as understandable instead.

Question 5, (d)

I think what Hamlet means when he says "O my prophetic soul! My Uncle?" at the end of the extract is that he is shocked by the ghost that the murderer of his father was his uncle. I think this because he ~~says~~ exclaims "O my prophetic soul!" implying that he is shocked by the news. 3
